WHERE LEADERS ARE MADE

The Discovery Toastmasters cordially invites you to attend a workshop on giving feedback and coaching at noon on January 22nd, featuring:

Harold Osmundson
District 6 Director

Giving feedback and coaching others are essential leadership skills. Effective leaders must provide feedback and coach others in a manner that motivates, helps, and improves performance. Individuals and organizations seek out leaders that make a positive difference, and these skills do just that.

This session will help you give better feedback and coach others to improve. You'll learn to:

- Motivate others and empower them to change
- Choose specific words, organization, and delivery style
- Select the right time and setting to provide feedback

Toastmasters clubs offer members opportunities to develop these skills through evaluations. This session will make you a better evaluator in the club, and a more effective leader outside the club.

Attend this session to further develop your leadership skills and impact others.
